Agricultural Literature

The publications listed in this NEWSLETTER are limited to those received in this branch library. They are only a small fraction of the literature actually available to you. The resources of the Department Library in Washington are also at your disposal. Check the monthly Bibliography of Agriculture for the Department Library's recent accessions and current journal articles in your field.

Publications not in the Department Library or one of its branches may frequently be located in other libraries in the United States and borrowed through inter-library loan for you. Ask for what you need. It will be obtained if it is at all possible.
